Hello children!

I am the little mermaid Ariel. I know that you are very smart, you know a lot, and I decided to ask you for help.

But first I will tell you about my water kingdom. Far, far out in the open sea the water is as blue as the leaves of the finest blueberry, and clear as the clearest glass. But it is very deep. The most wonderful plants grow in it; they have such flexible leaves and stems and even the slightest movement of the water makes them sway in all directions as if they were alive. Big and small fish dive between the branches, just as the birds fly in the trees on your land. The marine population lives down there. And in the deepest waters you can see what? – yes, the palace of the King of the Sea - my father - King Neptune. The walls of the castle are made of corals, the windows are made of the purest amber, and the roof is made of shells, which open and close, depending on the water currents.

So far everything looks great, but.....many of the sea residents got sick because people have been polluting the water constantly. And we have to do something to save the sea animals and plants. I am sending you some of the water which needs to be purified.

Hoping you will help me,

Ariel
